INVITATION

to the International Scientific-Practical Conference

“TRAPS OF UNCERTAINTY – SCENARIOS FOR A RESILIENT REGION”

25th of November, 2021.

Virtual conference

For 20 years this annual international scientific conference is organized by VU Šiauliai Academy (previously - Šiauliai University) together with partners. The main topic of this year's conference is “Traps of Uncertainty - Scenarios for a Resilient Region”. The scientific discussion will take place in the scientific session “Trends of the Regional Competitiveness Change”. The aim of it is to invite researchers in economics, management, public policy and administration to share results of scientific research on the contribution and the role and solutions of various participants (private sector companies, governmental institutions, non-governmental organizations) for the creation of a resilient and competitive region.

Themes of the discussion will include the resilience of a region, opportunities to exploit the economic potential (especially after COVID-19), trends and challenges of possible growth, opportunities for successful, stable, sustainable and socially equitable growth of the country and regional economies, the competitiveness of enterprises in a global market.

We invite you to participate with or without it

The registration form is open till the 17th of November, 2021.
